SUNDAY NOVEMBER 9, 1879.

Geo. C. Jordan, Editor and Prop.

MR. JOHN KELLY already begins to want to know what he has got to show for all that he has done.

The people of Oneida county, New York, when Senator Conkling resides, expressed their appreciation of the Conkling-Cornell-Kelly combination by giving Cornell only half the majority it gives for the other Republican candidates. Tammany seems to be in bad odor in Conkling's home.

DENNIS KEARNEY seems at last to have arranged his programme for definite work. At a meeting in San Francisco on Wednesday night he made a speech as usual, and announced that he was proposed to organize a secret society to be called the Jacobin Society, whose object it would be "to hang every merchant who should employ Chinese labor, or in any way encourage Chinese labor." A San Francisco dispatch states that all at the meeting approved this proposition, and there is considerable excitement in the city. Kearney has been given such a liberal quantity of rope that it really seems about time he had hanged himself.

The Philadelphia Record says: "The Raleigh News considers Bayard and Palmer the strongest Presidential team for 1880. The News is not solitary in this way of thinking. The ticket takes in the East and the West, and is satisfactory to the South."

We were willing to support Gov. Tilden, until the late election, not that he was our special favorite, but because we thought him the most available man; and because he was once fairly elected to the office now usurped by Hayes. We now think Bayard is the strongest man the Democracy can set up. With Governor Palmer occupying the second place on the ticket, it would take a "team" indeed to beat them.

Bayard can carry New York in 1880! Palmer can carry Illinois in 1880! Then what is to prevent the Democratic banner, with the names of Bayard and Palmer displayed upon its masthead, from marching to victory next year?

The frequent and apparently increasing disgraceful wrangles in church congregations are profoundly to be deplored. That there should be differences at times among the members of the same church and that they should command the warmest interest from opposing disputants, is but natural. While churches are human, with all the infirmities of our nature, there will be schisms in churches as in political parties, families and communities; but there is a certain degree of dignity and decorum that must be maintained in church differences if the church is to be protected from the appearance of evil. We do not now allude to the ordinary antagonisms of opinion that so often develop in churches on the questions of faith or worship or to the natural disputes which are now and then unavoidable in the selection or dismissal of a pastor; but we mean to refer to such unseemly and unchristian quarrels as have quite recently disgraced the First Reformed Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh and the Lutheran Church of Honesdale. In both churches named there has been a partisan contest over the acceptance or dismissal of a pastor, and the methods of warfare adopted would have disgraced an organization of pot-house ward politicians. The forcible possession of churches by one portion of a congregation and the forcible expulsion or exclusion of another portion of worshippers at the same altar, can be regarded by both the pious and the profane only as a consuming reproach not merely upon the belligerent actors, but upon religion itself. The world expects churches to govern themselves better than do brawling politicians. They expect it not only because churches profess to be exemplars of discreet and just government, but also because the reverence that is accorded to religion demands it. If pastors fall from their pedestals by the law of their own men; or if, by reason of unfortunate circumstances consistent with purity of character, their usefulness is impaired or ended, the laws of all churches provide a legitimate remedy. Brawling between ruling officials and their partisans; the locking of church doors against pastors and their adherents, and like violence of temper and action in churches on any issue, are not only disgraceful to our civilization, but especially disgraceful to religion.

SOME PROPOSED CHANGES AT WEST POINT.

The report of General Schofield, Superintendent of West Point Military Academy, deals with two points of interest to the general public, and his views respecting them will be acceptable to the majority of people who have considered the questions discussed. It has been urged in some quarters that the standard of admission to the academy should be raised so that graduates of other schools who obtain their appointments through competitive examinations may not be kept down by the ignorance of applicants who can enter the Academy under the present requirements. General Schofield reminds those who make this demand that the standard is sufficiently high to secure the success of the students who come from all parts of the country. He, as also General Sherman, oppose the competitive examination plan, and thinks the best interest of the Academy are not subserved by this course. It gives good students, but it does not always guarantee young men of pure moral natures, of excellent physique, or of unexceptionable honor. These making appointments should bear it in mind. Again, General Schofield favors a change in the present rule that a young man should go through the four years' course. He is anxious that Congress should so legislate that candidates who possess much higher qualifications than the standard require may be given the full benefit of their superior attainments by being admitted to a higher class in the academy. This arrangement would meet the objections of those who think the preliminary examination is not high enough, and who would sacrifice the best interest of the academy for the sake of serving a few young men, whose mathematical bumps are unusually well developed. The present system is the right one; it provides for the consistent development of all the mental faculties, and demands the possession of those moral qualifications, without which the student is not only of no value to the academy, but is a positive injury to it. Many of the candidates are from the distant territories and have been deprived of the advantages which the graduate of the public school of New York has benefited by. General Schofield contends that the year's preparation, granted to all candidates, enables the farmer to prepare for the examination, and they should be considered in any plan that looks to the addition of difficulties to be surmounted at the beginning of cadet life. Another suggestion that will meet with the approval of the public is that with slight additional cost the academy might be made available for the education of a considerable number of young men in excess of the annual vacancies in the army. These would be returned to their respective States for service in the militia. This plan would prove popular, for there are numerous young men who would avail themselves of this opportunity to secure an education, and who would in time of need make return to their country for the education given them at its cost. The academy is a useful if expensive establishment, and any additional benefit that the people can receive from it will add to its popularity and increase its value to the nation.

The East and Its Power.

Weldon News. If we refer to statistics we will find that a majority of the Democratic votes cast in North Carolina came from what are called the East or negro counties. The county of Halifax alone polled as large a vote in 1876 as several of the small Western counties, and yet because we have no legislative representation, one of those small counties has far greater influence with its 250 votes than Halifax. The consequence is that, though the East with its forty thousand votes is an important factor in elections, after the voting is done, the profitable places are all given to some head, from marching to victory next year?

Fowle and Waddell.

WARM SPRINGS, Nov. 6th, '79. Correspondence of News. There is nothing of much interest that I have to write about at present. Of course our American people are always full and running over about politics. The great mass of the people are always right if there is any chance for them to understand the leaders of our party. The great misfortune of the Democratic party is that it has had no leader since Vance left the Executive chair. The Democratic party must not flatter themselves that they can walk over the track without strong opposition. I think Judge Buxton will be certain to get the Republican nomination for Governor. Let every Democrat in the State conclude at once that he will be a hard man to beat in the canvass. Believe there is one man in the State of North Carolina that can carry the Democratic banner to a glorious triumph, and his name is Daniel G. Fowle, of Raleigh. He is true. He has a Democratic Governor Jarvis, but he is a long ways behind the present age. What our people want is Fowle for Governor and A. M. Waddell, of Wilmington, for Lieutenant Governor, and North Carolina can be carried for the Constitution, the Union and the enforcement of the laws.

Bourbons to be Sent to the Rear.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The apparent result of the election in New York has given new courage to the Conservative Democrats here who have been endeavoring to help the Bayard movement. They argue from the returns the impracticability of nominating Samuel J. Tilden, and say that the South in convention will be likely to be solid for Bayard as against Tilden. The Conservatives also will endeavor to have some controlling influence upon the action of the party at the coming session of Congress. At the last session the conservative men really stepped to the rear and allowed the mounting, blatant maguogues to take control of affairs, and to lead the party into its most conspicuous blunders. Conservative leaders here now say that all this is to be changed in the coming session; that the Bourbons will be asked to take back seats, and that the Conservative men, such as Bayard, Lamar, Gordon, Randall, and others, will come to the front, and formulate the policy of the party.

Tell-Tale Evidence Against Hayden

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 7.—An important piece of testimony in the Hayden murder case has just come to light. It is to the effect that there has been found in Mary Stannard's right cheek, which has been preserved in the Yale medical school, seventeen indentations which correspond exactly with the seventeen nails in the heel of Mr. Hayden's left brogan which he wore on the day of the murder. It is claimed by the State that Hayden put his foot on the girl's face when he cut her throat, and that the indentations were made by the nails in the brogan heel at that time. This is considered a vital point in the case, as it tends to fix the personality of the murderer.

Interesting Young Men.

Franklin Times. "The interesting young man must be pale and thin, have long hair, but no side whiskers, eat little in public, never smoke a pipe, be short-sighted, have a big pain, be sour, talk about himself, be imprudent, be extreme in opinion, especially on theology and medievalism, be popular with women, not able to shoot or ride, hate wet feet, be disliked by men, and, in toto, be a double fool."

A Plafond President.

Cincinnati Commercial. We have had solid presidents and statesman presidents, and perhaps one or two who were neither, but have never had a sailor president. How would it do to try a gentleman who sails the sea, salt sea for a change?

Remarkable Stories of a Colored Healer, Whose Remedy is Prayer.

—Election—Betting—Musical.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Nov. 3.—Pittsburg has quite a local sensation over the wonderful "cure" of an aged colored woman named Mix, who professes to heal all manner of diseases of fatality in prayer; and, certainly, if all reports are true, and there are no grounds to doubt their truthfulness other than the seeming improbability of the mode of cure, and there are scores ready to vouch for the authenticity of the statements, her success has been something marvellous. She first came to Pittsburg a month ago from her home in Wadsworth, Conn., in a very quiet, unpretentious manner, and cured the wife of James H. Butler, a prominent builder and lumber dealer, who for years had been a sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism, and soon after electing this remarkable cure she returned to her home in Connecticut as quietly as she came to this place. On Friday last, she returned to Mr. Butler's residence, and, in an excellent health, and, as soon as the fact of her being there was noised abroad, the entire neighborhood flocked to the residence of Mr. Butler, and others, sick, halt, blind, etc., until the yard had the appearance of a hospital. An old gentleman named Hanniman was cured of asthma of twenty years' standing in her health, and, as soon as the fact of her being there was noised abroad, the entire neighborhood flocked to the residence of Mr. Butler, and others, sick, halt, blind, etc., until the yard had the appearance of a hospital. —Regular service at the Second Presbyterian church to-day at 11 A. M. and 4 P. M.

—Our colored people are busy at Camp Russell, preparing for their approaching Fair.

—The longest march on record is said to be the march of improvement. Where are you pedestrian Rowley?

—The world was never intended for a house of mourning. The flowers are not painted black, nor is every bird a crow.

—Now that the wintry days are drawing nigh, let us not forget the poor among us who are worthy objects of charity.

—The receipt of an invitation to attend a grand ball to be given at Fayetteville on the 14th inst. is acknowledged.

—The Southern again affirms it is committed to no one for movement. "The best man, whoever he is, will suit us."

—One drunk was before his Honor, Mayor Manly, yesterday, and was returned to the station house for a twelve hours rest.

—Warren Taylor was before Justice Barbee yesterday, charged with assault and battery. He was discharged upon payment of costs.

—His memory deserves execration. His name was Noah, and he once had fish reduced to two, and failed to annihilate them.

—For the finest unadulterated nine year old Baker whiskey go to Lawrence & Renfrow's. See his local advertisement in another column.

—Regular meeting of Wm. G. Hill Lodge No. 218 on to-morrow (Monday) night at 7:30 o'clock. A full attendance is desired by the W. M.

—Mr. George Harward last night at Linck's Athletic Hall made the remarkable time of fifteen and one-half miles in two hours. Pretty good!

—Two colored butchers had a "set to" in the market house, and were before His Honor the Mayor in consequence yesterday. The matter was continued until to-morrow (Monday) morning.

—Jim Felton and two other negroes have been delivered to the penitentiary authorities by deputy sheriff O. B. Davis, of Carter county. Jim goes for twenty-five years for burglary. The other two are committed for larceny.

—Articles for exhibition at the colored people's Fair to be held in this city this month, beginning on the 17th, will be passed over the railroad free of charge. So send in your exhibits, it will cost you nothing and you may win a valuable premium.

—On last Thursday, the 6th instant, this item appeared in the local columns of the News: "Justice Barbee yesterday (Friday) Q. Edwards before him upon the charge of forgery. He was recognized in a bond of $500 for his appearance before the same Justice on the 26th of this month to answer the charge." Instead of reading J. Q. Edwards it should have been J. Q. Adams. It is a serious mistake as far as Mr. Edwards is concerned, who is an up-right and popular merchant of our city, and the News desiring to make all reputation in its power for an error in its columns whereby he has had an injustice done him, cheerfully makes the correction. No one regrets the occurrence more than the News.

Grand Lodge of North Carolina, F. A. M.

OFFICE OF GRAND SECRETARY, RALEIGH, NOV. 6, 1879.

The Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of North Carolina, will commence its 53rd Annual Communication at its hall in this city on Tuesday, 24th of December next, at 7:30 o'clock P. M.

Officers and representatives can procure return tickets, on application, over the railroads, etc., at the rates herein mentioned, viz:

Six cents per mile for the round trip over the following:

Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad; Seaboard and Roanoke; Raleigh and Gaston; Raleigh and Augusta Air-Line; Wilmington and Weldon; Wilmington, Columbia and Augusta; Richmond and Roanoke; North Carolina Division; North Western North Carolina; Piedmont and Charlotte, Columbia and Augusta.

Six and one-half cents over the Atlantic, Tennessee and Ohio Railroad.

For one first class fare over the following: Western North Carolina Railroad; Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley (from Fayetteville); Carolina Central; Atlanta and Charlotte Air-Line; and Disman's Ferry Canal.

It is especially suggested that return tickets over all the routes mentioned are necessary to prevent the payment of fares for the Atlanta and Charlotte Air-Line, over which the Grand Secretary's certificate will be issued to return.

Curative.

Below is appended a letter received by Mrs. J. E. Person. It is commended to the readers of the News:

Nov. 2, 1879.

I have now been using your bitters, and over eighteen months, and the longer I use it the more I am convinced of its merits. The cancer covers perhaps one-third of my face and neck, but your bitters and wash have held it in check, so that it has comparatively made little progress since using your remedy. The bitters have kept up my general health so as to surprise all my friends, and the wash keeps it so clean that there is nothing offensive about it. At this time there is one place healing and looks like getting well; new skin has formed a half inch wide and one inch long. My tongue was very sore each side near the root; that has disappeared. The end of my tongue was very sore and coated with white; that is nearly all gone. At one time my taste was nearly all gone; now everything has its natural and proper taste. My general health is better than it was two and two and one-half years ago, all those changes for the better the result of your bitters and wash. I feel that with the blessing of God I can out my life. It does not look probable that such a frightful looking place could ever get well, and yet all those little improvements sometimes make me hope that God may yet make the medicine the means of curing it. My prayers go up to Him daily for the best of heaven's blessings on you. The ease and comfort I have enjoyed by using this medicine is more than I can tell. I would not be so happy for thousands of dollars. I do not know how to express myself in regards to the merits of the medicine. I regard it as superior to any I know of or otherwise, and I have tried everything I could get for the past twelve years. God bless you and your medicine is my daily prayer.

Respectfully,
JOHN BUE,

Care in Selecting Food.

The first conditions of healthfulness are secured when care is taken in selecting the articles which enter into our daily food. Let all the articles used be as pure, wholesome and easy of digestion as Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder, and we warrant that the health of the family will not be likely to suffer.

If Professor Edison's Electric Light is going to supersede the use of gas, we are glad of it. Gas is the bane of our national existence. When hoarse with too much speaking take Hays' Balm. It is especially adapted to congressmen, ministers and the rest of mankind.

It is Dr. Boschee's famous German prescription, and no fear need be entertained in administering it to the youngest child, as five directions. The sale of this medicine is unprecedented.
